INTRODUCTION

One way that Metro conducts transportation forecasts is by asking and researching the question: "When people use transportation, where do they go?" In other words, where are popular destinations? And where are the visitors coming from? This helps Metro figure out where public transit would be useful.

TRIP DISTRIBUTION

DAD: (humming) Da, da, da, dum....

Z: Hey dad...?

DAD: What, son?

Z: I rocked too hard with my band and accidentally broke my arm!

DAD: Oh my gosh!

BRIT: Daddykins....

DAD: Oh lord.

BRIT: I really need to go to the mall. All my friends will be there.

DAD: There's going to be way too many people there because everyone goes there!

BRIT: Do you really think I care? Really? I don't care- I want to go! Now!

DAD: First, we're going to go to the hospital. (Whispering) Everyone's going to be there, too!

Z: Dad! It hurts!

DAD: Aw, Jeez!

BRIT: Daddy! I need to go to the movies right afterwards! Kelly and Samantha are going to go see "Dating at 12" with Meg Ryan and Jennifer Aniston.

Z: Dad! The pain! The pain!

DAD: Okay, I'm taking you to the hospital, and then I'll take Brittney to the mall, pick you up and then I'm going to the movie with you. It might be inappropriate for children under the age of 13.

BRIT: But daddykins, I'm 15 and a half! And you have work at McDonalds.

Z: Bone! Pain! Hospital! Now!

BRIT: C'mon, dad. He's totally faking! And if it's real, it's just a hairline fracture.

DAD: Okay, hospital, mall, movie, job. I'll drop you off and take Z to the hospital and then I'll go to my job.

BRIT and Z: But how do we get picked up?

DAD: DANG IT!!
